

REPUBLICANS GATHER FOR CHICAGO CONVENTION

HOUSE VOTES TO CONSIDER BONUS OF TWO BILLIONS

Even If Measure Passes House Senate Veto Is Assured

Washington, June 13—(AP)—The House today voted to call up the $2,000,000,000 cash bonus payment legislation for formal consideration.

The vote for consideration was 226 to 175.

A few minutes later the House agreed to take up the bonus legislation and consider it until a final vote is reached.

Meanwhile, Senate leaders claim to have 55 votes—a majority of the 96 members—against the proposal. If they are able to muster that number on a roll call the legislation is doomed for this session.

This action represented a step toward victory for the 20,000 war veterans who have poured into Washington to demand immediate payment of the bonus certificates. While the vote was being taken, and long before the House galleries were packed with former service men who watched tensely all proceedings. Outside long lines of veterans stood, hoping to gain admittance.

Veto Is Promised

If the House approves the bonus payment on the final vote, the legislation still must run the gauntlet of the Senate and the White House. What action the Senate will take is problematical. But President Hoover has promised a veto.

Action today came on a motion to bring the resolution by Representative Patman (D. Texas) up for consideration. The vote was obtained through a petition signed by 145 House members.

Investigation disclosed today that a "bomb" found near a billiard table in the House chamber was a hand grenade from which the powder and cap had been removed.

"Bomb" War Relief?

Police said they thought it was a war relic brought along out of sentiment by one of the veterans who have come to Washington to demand payment of the bonus.

The atmosphere in the House was tense as members met for the showdown charged with political trouble for the members, though approval of the $2,000,000,000 outlay was a foregone conclusion. Leaders of the rapidly growing army of bonus seekers kept their men from staging any demonstration at the Capitol, urging them to stay away and leave representation in the galleries to a few selected men. The rest remained in their rear-echelon field quarters.

The vote was 165 Democrats, 60 Republicans and one Farmer-Labor for consideration and 133 Republicans and 42 Democrats against.

The vote on making the Patman bill the next business was 225 to 169. Three members voted "present."

Four Hours Debate

Representative Barney of Illinois, the Acting Speaker, designated Representative Crisp (D. Ga.) to control the two hours of debate against the bill.

Representative Patman (D. Tex.) will support his measure and have an equal amount of time.

Patman obtained an agreement for the House to meet at 11 A. M. tomorrow, an hour earlier than usual. The recorder then read the Illinois congressional delegation on the roll call to consider the Patman bonus bill.

Lowden Refuses To Head Third Party

Oregon, Ill. June 13—(AP)—Col. Frank O. Lowden, the former Republican Governor of Illinois and veteran farm leader will not head a third party movement as its candidate for President this fall.

A delegation of Chicagoans visited him here Saturday and informed him that he was widespread demand for his candidacy but the 72-year-old campaigner who received 311 votes in 1920 for the Republican presidential nomination and four years later rejected the nomination as vice president, turned a deaf ear to their pleas.

His advanced years, Col. Lowden said, made it inadvisable that he should shoulder the rigors of a campaign. He has been in retirement for several years.

The Chicago delegation was headed by W. W. O'Brien, Chicago's criminal attorney who is an independent candidate for Governor of Illinois.

Bodies Of Two Reclaimed From Kilauea's Crater

Hilo, Hawaii, June 13—(AP)—Man descended into the fuming crater of Halemaumau—"House of Everlasting Fire" and reclaimed from Pele, dreaded Hawaiian fire goddess the bodies of a despairing lover who killed his sweetheart and leaped into the volcano claspings her body.

A daring Japanese contractor, Rikan Kinishi, gambled with death yesterday as he was lowered into the firepit of Kilauea volcano returning eight hours later with the bodies of Sylvester Nunes, 20, and Margaret Enos, 17.

The descent was made in a tiny cable suspended perilously from a cable stretched across the pit into which Kinishi would have plunged to a boiling death in the lava 1,200 feet below had the cable broken.

Shortly after he reached the ledge 900 feet below the brink on which the bodies lay, he signalled with a white flag that his trip would be successful. He returned with the bodies strapped to his cage and claimed the $1,000 for which he contracted to do the job.

Nunes kidnaped and shot the girl June 2 because she refused to marry him and then leaped into Pele's traditional home, claspings his sweetheart's body, a brazen rebuke to the fire goddess to whom ancient Hawaiians offered a sacrifice of Ohelo berries before approaching her abode.

RESCUED FLIER TOO EXHAUSTED TO TELL STORY

Stanislaus Hausner Is Picked Up: Afloat In Plane A Week

New Orleans, June 13—(AP)—Agents for the tanker Circle Shell that rescued Stanislaus Felix Hausner at sea disclosed today there is a possibility the ship might proceed to Curacao, off the coast of Venezuela and thence to Houston, Texas, before coming to New Orleans.

Previously it was thought the Circle Shell would make New Orleans her first port of call, docking in about two weeks. In event she touches at Curacao, Hausner's return to this country would be delayed many days.

S. S. Circle Shell June 13—(AP)—Stanislaus Felix Hausner, New Jersey movie operator whose attempt at a trans-atlantic flight to his native Poland ended in the sea, was too exhausted today to tell the story.

He was resting aboard this ship after an unsuccessful attempt to be completely restored to health before he arrives at New Orleans, which probably will be in two weeks.

It was decided last night to abandon Hausner's red monoplane in which he drifted for a week after falling a few hundred miles short of the European coast.

The plane was left drifting in approximately 42° 41' 18" north latitude and 20° 04' longitude west. Darkness which fell shortly after Hausner was rescued made it impossible to pick up the plane. As it faded from view it was drifting southward at a speed of about one knot an hour.

Hausner asked any vessel whose position made it convenient to salvage the plane. The position in which it was left is about 500 miles off Portugal.

Ogle County Farm Home Burned Today

(Telegraph Special Service)

Polo, June 13—The farm residence of Francis McMahon located five and one-half miles south east of Polo was totally destroyed by fire this morning at 8 o'clock. Only a small part of the household effects on the first floor was removed, the building and its contents being quickly consumed by the flames which started from an overheated pipe in the kitchen. The damage was reported to be covered by insurance.

FRIENDS, FOES OF PROHIBITION BOLSTER LINES

"No Compromise" Watchword In Rival Camps On Convention Eve

Chicago, June 13—(AP)—Increasing intensity of wet and dry agitation was signalled today by the perfection by both sides of plans to fight out the issue before the Republican national convention and its Resolutions committee.

Wets and dries alike in meetings and conferences sought to strengthen their forces for the final battle. Both expressed confidence of victory.

Senator Bingham of Connecticut, an anti-prohibition leader, declared himself dissatisfied with the repeal proposal of the New York delegation, which has been acclaimed by the wets when it was first announced.

After construing the delegation's resolution as a "very carefully worded proposition amounting only to submission," Bingham said he wanted the convention to declare itself for repeal as well as for a vote of the people.

Divergent Views.

E. C. Dinwiddie, secretary of the special Prohibition Board of Strategy, described the Republican convention "philosophy" as similar to that of the fellow in the ring trying to ride two animals going in opposite directions. The Republicans, he said, were debating the issue because of fear the Democrats would adopt a platform favorable to the wets. Meanwhile, Senator Fess of Ohio, chairman of the Republican National Committee, asserted that the prohibition issue "must be ironed out so that both sides will be fully satisfied" and there must be "no straddling or ambiguity." Long a dry leader, he added he was opposed to a national referendum because it would be meaningless.

A strategy committee was selected by the united repeal forces to plan for a fight on the floor should the Resolutions committee reject its plea for a repeal plank. Pierre S. Dupont, Mrs. Charles H. Sabin and Ralph H. Shaw, Chicago lawyer, were named to the committee.

"Erratic Thinking."

Meanwhile in other quarters, Mrs. Henry W. Peabody of the Women's National Committee for Law Enforcement was telling a prohibition meeting that John D. Rockefeller, Jr., accepted the "erratic thinking" of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler when he declared for prohibition repeal.

"Come back to your real friends, John Jr.," appealed Mrs. Peabody, "give your life and wealth to make America safe for children."

Walter A. Dodd, delegate from San Francisco, announced upon his arrival in Chicago he would ask the Republican Service League, which meets tomorrow night, to adopt a resolution condemning prohibition as a failure and to work for its repeal.

HALL IS APPROVED

Washington, June 13—(AP)—President Hoover has approved the recommendations of the Federal Hospitalization Board for the erection of a $38,000 recreation hall at the Danville, Ill., Veterans' Home.

Star Chamber Deliberates On Fees And Salaries, Belief

At the invitation of Supervisor D. H. Spencer of this city of the Fees and Salaries committee, the Law county Board of Supervisors went into a closed session of brief duration this morning after convening for the first session of the regular meeting.

The application of County Superintendent of Highways Fred W. Leake of Amboy for reappointment by the county board was submitted at the open meeting and referred to the Road and Bridge committee to submit a recommendation at this session. It was rumored this morning that another application for the position would be filed with the board at this session.

The Illinois Northern Utilities Company filed a petition with the board asking permission to construct an electric transmission line in Dixon township, the petition being referred to the Road and Bridge committee.

The petitions of Mary Eich, aged 77 of Brooklyn township and Gustave Peiffer 25, of this city for blind pensions, were referred to the Judiciary committee.

Traylor Cohorts Also Have Scheme

Chicago, June 13—(AP) Schemers for a Roosevelt-Traylor ticket for the Democrats, with Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt in first place and Melvin A. Traylor of Chicago in second, was countered today by a statement from the Fort Worth, Tex., Traylor Club suggesting party success would be assured by a Traylor-Roosevelt ticket.

The statement was issued by Frank Scofield, secretary of the Fort Worth Club, who already has opened Traylor-for-President headquarters here. It coincided with a visit to Chicago by James A. Farley, field marshal of the Roosevelt movement. Scofield said he was "confident" Mr. Traylor could not be drafted for Vice President.

POLICE CONDUCT OF LINDY'S CASE MEETS CRITICISM

British Government Is Considering Making Official Protest

BULLETIN.

London, June 13—(AP)—The suicide of Violet Sharpe, English waitress in the home of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow at Englewood, N. J., may become an international affair.

Labor members of Parliament have signified their intention of asking the British government to make representations to the government of the United States over the suicide. They planned to make the request during a general questioning on the matter in the course of today's session.

London newspapers expressed indignation against the New Jersey police. Some accused the officers of having driven the girl to suicide by their questioning in connection with the Lindbergh case. The Daily Herald, Labor organ, accused them of "venting their chagrin at their failure in the Lindbergh case on a poor English servant girl."

Alpine, N. J., June 13—(AP)—The case of Violet Sharpe, English domestic waitress, bore an international aspect today as police denied accusations that they hurried her to death.

The charge, voiced indignantly in the English press, was followed by news that Labor members of Parliament were expected to ask the British government today to make representations to the United States about the girl. She took poison at the home of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, last Friday as police arrived to question her anew about her movements the night Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., was kidnapped.

After watching the theory they built up against Miss Sharpe and Ernest Brinkert, cab driver from White Plains, N. Y., go to pieces police busied themselves with final checks.

Deny Undue Pressure

"There was never undue pressure brought to bear" during her questioning by the police," Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the State Police said "On each of the four occasions members of the Morrow or Lindbergh households were present."

"In view of Ernest Miller's statement and Brinkert's alibi, do you still believe Violet Sharpe had guilty knowledge of the crime?" Will you publicly exonerate her?" Schwarzkopf was asked.

"This is a matter of opinion," he answered.

Only one thing remains to be cleared up so far as Violet Sharpe

FARM LEADERS PRESENT PLANK FOR PLATFORM

Three Organizations In Chicago Seek Audience With Garfield

Chicago, June 13—(AP)—Leaders of the three largest groups of organized farmers today sought a few minutes in which to urge a farm relief plank for adoption by the Republican national convention.

The American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Grange and the Farmers' Union, were in virtual agreement upon the four points of a resolution to be presented by a joint representative.

An amendment to the Federal Marketing Act to take care of surplus crops through the tariff, bettering rural credit, economy in government and stabilization of the farm dollar were the thoughts decided upon for incorporation in the organized farmers' plan.

While the principal tenets of the three groups remained far apart, that difficulty was surmounted by an agreement to urge that the Federal Farm Board be authorized to adopt the method of its choice or a consolidation of the best points of the three plans sponsored by the farmer groups.

The farmer groups sent Earl C. Smith of Detroit, Ill., to see Garfield, in an effort to obtain time for presenting the proposed farm relief plank.

1,800 Got Diplomas At Illinois Today

Urbana, Ill., June 13—(AP)—Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase today challenged educated men and women "to right a sick world" and bestowed pocket-sized diplomas on more than 1,800 University of Illinois graduates at commencement exercises.

The class was only slightly smaller than last year's, which was the largest in the University's history. Almost 1,500 of this year's 1,800 were four year students and more than 300 won advanced degrees.

"Keep your heads," they were advised by President Chase. "Individual effort, energy and intelligence must be exerted if we are to find a way out of the present world situation. This country is not scheduled for ruin."

"In the structure of its life, there will be a place for intelligence and competence. Educated men and women must lead the way. All must cooperate for the common good. We cannot afford to be selfish in our own interests in these times."

Exports of linen piece goods from the United Kingdom to the United States in 1931 totaled 33,056,000 square yards.

ROUSING BATTLE ON PROHIBITION SURE IN STADIUM

Hope Of Harmony Over Question Has Gone Glimmering

Chicago, June 13—(AP)—The swiftly-rising whirlpool of Republican dissension over prohibition completely engulfed the chosen representatives of the party today on the eve of their national convention.

To general and rear-rank private alike, what to do about the dry law became the one big question. Not only were they ready to re-nominate President Hoover, but sentiment was turning definitely to Vice President Curtis for his running-mate and all of the lesser disputes over platform and procedure seemed headed for harmonious decision.

No one any longer expected harmony on prohibition. The prediction of a plank "acceptable to all of us" had gone up in the smoke of the most furious platform battle any Republican convention has seen since the League of Nations row in 1920.

Leaders Discouraged

Haggard and plainly discouraged after many hours of conference, the high commanders of the party continued their efforts at a compromise while indignant dries and insistent wets hammered at their doors.

A much-revised version of the plank, brought from Washington after long consultation with President Hoover, remained the testing-block of their labors. It declares for resubmission of the

Oscar Gardner And Family In Accident

Oscar Gardner and family were badly shaken up and sustained minor cuts and bruises in an unusual automobile accident last evening about 9:15 while returning home from a motor trip to Madison, Wis. The accident took place on the Black Hawk trail about five miles south of Rockford. Mrs. Charles Dierdorf, a passenger in the Gardner Packard sedan sustained a painful injury to her hip when the big car overturned in a ditch.

Mr. Gardner was driving south when a small car from Byron stopped on the paving. Applying the brakes in an effort to avoid crashing into the stalled machine, the Dixon car swerved into the pathway of a Chrysler coupe, driven by a resident of Beloit, Wis., then turned over into the ditch. One side of the Gardner car was torn away and several of the glasses broken, covering the occupants with shattered glass. The Beloit car was also badly damaged but fortunately none of the occupants was seriously injured. Both of the wrecked machines were brought to Dixon to be repaired.

On his return to the Senate today he said: "I think it was a distinct discourtesy to the Banking and Currency committee and not only that but it was yielding to those predatory interests whose immoral and almost criminal depredations have precipitated this great distress upon this country."

Beautiful White Shrine Ceremonial

The first ceremonial conducted by the newly elected officers of Corinthian Shrine of the White Shrine of Jerusalem was held at the Masonic Temple Friday evening. A business session was held at four P. M., and at 6:30 a picnic supper was served to seventy-five members and their families. The tables were beautifully decorated with crimson and white pennies. The ladies of this organization are noted for their skill in cooking and the dinner turned out to be an elaborate banquet which was thoroughly enjoyed by every one present.

The guests adjourned to the beautiful lodge room where the meeting was called to order by the Worthy High Priestess, Dorothy Jane Dodd. The Patrol Team had been rehearsing for some time under the direction of Lloyd Lewis and gave an exhibition drill which included a number of new formations and which proved to be probably the best example of their remarkable skill and they were repeatedly applauded.

Mrs. Delores Redebaugh and Mrs. Crawford Thomas accompanied by two delightful vocal numbers, "Sing, Sing, Bird on the Wing," and "Moon Lullaby," which were thoroughly appreciated by the audience. The ceremonial, which includes the initiation of candidates was conducted by the new officers who had spent considerable time rehearsing their various parts. Among the visitors were a number of the present and past officers of the Supreme Shrine of the White Shrine of Jerusalem and also many of the officers of the shrines in surrounding cities. All of these visitors in their talks, highly praised the work of the Dixon officers. Among the out-of-town guests were many from Franklin Grove, Peru, LaSalle, Morrison, Rock Island, Sterling and Polo. Each of these visiting officers and members of Corinthian officers, in turn, invited the officers to attend their shrine and urged that they bring the drill team for an exhibition at their next ceremonial.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Johnson received a Bible in recognition of being the oldest couple in the membership. Mr. Johnson is past 87 and he and Mrs. Johnson have been married over sixty-three years. Mr. and Mrs. Jasper McConaughay were presented a Bible as having the largest family. They have eight children. Orin Coltrin received a new testament as the oldest member. He is nearing his 88th birthday. Miss N. Rice received a testament as having had the longest membership in the church. Norman Flamingam was awarded a testament as being the youngest member present. Mary Louis Poole received one as the youngest member and Elizabeth Gale of Nelson was awarded a testament as the newest member having been baptized last Wednesday night.

THE JUNKERS RETURN.

Newspapers in Paris have been discovering a revival of the old spiked-helmet, 1914 brand of German imperialism lately.

With Von Papen sitting in the chancellery at Berlin, with the stiff-necked, die-hard Junker aristocracy laying strong hands on the government and with grotesque Hitler rising behind like a black cloud, it is quite evident that the French editors are just about right.

Germany is turning once more to the class that led it up to and into the war. And in that fact there is an indication of the awful way in which the world at large has failed to handle an acute problem.

The imperialism that guided German policy under the Hohenzollerns was not peculiar to Germany, of course. Every large European nation was more or less infected. But Germany seems to have had the worst case, and the things that happened from 1914 to 1918 proved rather clearly that that imperialistic attitude, and the actions which it gives rise to, are extremely dangerous to the world's well being.

After the armistice in 1918 imperialism went reeling. It is the fashion now to sneer at that "make the world safe for democracy" slogan of war days; but, really, there was a whole lot in it. At the end of 1918 a long step had been taken toward accomplishment of that ideal. If the right kind of program could have been followed, imperialism would have been dead forever.

But today, nearly 14 years after the armistice, the old imperialism is returning to Berlin; and it is impossible to escape the conclusion that the world's blindness and stupidity helped to revive it.

It is a fairer, less vengeful peace could have been made, if the victors had not gone beyond all reason in trying to squeeze gold out of the conquered, if a real world-wide disarmament program could have been accepted—then the old Junker imperialism would not be getting a new lease on life.

What happened in 1914 was tragic proof that world statesmanship had been incompetent. The events of this year seem to be offering us another proof.

THE SILLY SEASON FOR POLITICS.

The St. Louis lawyer who is seeking a Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate, and whose platform calls for the payment by the federal government of $720 a year to every citizen of the country, with $240 extra for each minor, serve to remind us that the political silly season is about to open in earnest.

Every campaign always brings to light a few candidates who are willing to promise the moon itself in their appeals to the voters; but it is evident that this year is going to give us an unusual number of them.

The voters are dissatisfied, restless; they want an improvement in their condition very badly, and when they feel that way the ordinary politician outdoes himself in making promises. Probably no one will go any farther than this St. Louis candidate—it would be almost impossible; but there will be a lot of campaign promises hardly less fantastic than his.

INSULL'S CASE.

One of the news stories telling of Samuel Insull's retirement from guidance of his vast industrial empire contained the following highly significant paragraph:

"In the years following 1924, according to observers, he himself became imbued with a belief that 'a new and everlasting era of prosperity' had arrived—a belief said to have been largely responsible for the present financial affairs in his utility system."

About all one can say to that is that Mr. Insull wasn't alone in his delusion. A lot of the rest of us used to feel the same way, too; and what happened to us is just about what happened to Mr. Insull. The whole country, in short, was deluded, and the country now is paying for the nation as a whole.

Hoovers' Secretary Gets First Badge

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

When Duncy got up from the ground, he spread a smile and looked around real proudly at the Tinymites. "I'm good," said he. "The elephant is my good friend. On him I know I can depend. He acted very cautious when he walked over me."

"Go on and brag," said Scouty. "Gee! You are just as boastful as can be. The elephant was trained to pull the tricks that he can do."

"I've seen that stunt time and again. Why, he walks over lots of men. He knows enough to do it right. No credit goes to you."

The little circus girl then said, "Do not argue. Let's have fun instead. I'll have Slim Jim do other tricks. At least I'll make him try."

Then to the elephant she said, "Come on, big boy, stand on your head." The animal then raised his hind legs until they were up high.

"My, he looks funny," Copy cried. The wee girl then came to his side and whispered, "I've a happy hunch. We'll play a little trick."

"I'll dress the elephant like a clown and then we'll have him dance around. You wait here while I do it. I am sure it will work slick."

She led the elephant to a tent and there a half an hour was spent in putting crazy clothes on him. He was a funny sight.

Then, when they walked back to the boys, the Tinymites made a lot of noise. The girl said, "Gee, I think he looks like Duncy Tinymite."

Instead of promptly getting mad, we Duncy showed. "Fine! I'm glad because I like that elephant. A dance he is going to do."

"Why, sure," replied the little girl. "He will jump around and glide and whirl. He's dressed up like a clown because he's imitating you."

(The Tinymites hear some very strange music in the next story.)

Wets Lay Plans at G. O. P. Meet

Campaigning For Anti-Dry Plank

Did he win this vote for the wets? Raymond Pitcairn, of Philadelphia, is seeking to convince Delegate W. A. Bonwitz (right) of Pittsburgh of the merits of the wet cause at the Republican convention. Pitcairn is organizer of the Citizens' Committee Against the Prohibition Amendment.

Wet Thoughts on a Dry Subject

Henry H. Curran of New York, leader in the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, seemed to have plenty to think about as he contemplated the wet-dry battle at the Republican convention at Chicago. A cameraman got this unusual "shot" at his headquarters.

buckle and an exquisite single strand necklace of pearls added to the soft gleam of the pale pink satin court gown worn by Mrs. Dorothy Doolan (right) of Detroit. Her fan matched the soft pink of her dress.

Molded Gowns Worn by American Women in Court Presentations

Unusual necklines, slenderizing molded lines and exquisite fabrics made the court gowns worn by Americans presented to the King and Queen of England more interesting than usual.

Very one-sided in its neckline and draped bodice was the unusual dress worn by Mrs. E. Champion Acheson (left) of Middletown, Conn. The neckline was cut high on one side, to make a slender strap, and pointed very low on the other side, where it was joined by a ruching of the material to make the other strap. She carried one of the loveliest shades ever seen, a gorgeous ostrich one shaded in tones of this year's bluish green. . . . Cowl-necked and fitted like a glove was the beautiful gown worn by Mrs. Russell M. Brooks (center) of Salem, Ore. It was a rich brocaded satin, in exquisite primrose tones with touches of contrasting dark brown. Her court train had a motif of the material heading the flare. She carried a little nosegay of English primroses. Jewelled shoulder straps, a handsome jewelled belt

Daily Health Talk

NOSE AND LIP INFECTION

Ordinary pus infections in the region of the nose and lip are peculiarly dangerous and should not be treated carelessly or very roughly.

The region of the nose and the upper lip is drained by blood vessels known as the anterior facial veins, which lead into the cavernous sinuses of the head.

Should the infection extend and penetrate into the veins, it may spread and involve the brain coverings.

A carbuncle on the neck, when it occurs on a young and healthy person, is seldom fatal. Yet thick skin and dense subcutaneous tissue in the region of the neck form a natural barrier to the infection.

Should veins in this region become involved, they tend to collapse and become blocked, and thus assist in shutting off the infection.

On the other hand, the skin around the nose and lips is thin. The veins in this region are with-

The Whole World Is at Your Fingertips—With a Telephone

When the family is away—when bad weather keeps everyone at home—when it just seems as though "nothing ever happens," a telephone can keep you from getting lonesome. For your telephone is always ready to carry your voice to friends or relatives—whether they live a few hundred feet away or a few hundred miles.

Of course a telephone is a protection, but it protects you from more than just physical harm. It also protects you against worrying and fretting—against lonesomeness and homesickness—and against that despondency which comes when you feel "alone in the world." Make sure that you have a telephone handy to cheer you up and bring friendly voices close to you. Order a telephone installed—TODAY.

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington.—Perhaps nothing else has so helped to keep jagged nerves of Congressmen from the actual breaking point in this gruelling 72nd session as have those days once a week when they lay everything aside for consideration of their private bills.

The private calendar is a congressional vehicle dear to the heart of every member. Here are deposited the hundreds of minor bills and claims that do so much to keep intact and mend breaks in the political fences back home.

And there's hardly a one of them not sorely in need of repair at present what with election time coming on and the seemingly wide spread feeling against the man who is in office.

But despite the fact that passage of these individual bills is of vital importance, the days set apart for their consideration have also served another purpose. Much of the time a feeling of high spirits prevails as contrasted to those other days when long faces, bitter words and hard feelings have been in order.

AN OBJECTION—

General Martin of Oregon, the only major-general in the House, for example, and his efforts to get one of his bills through the other day is a good illustration of the spirit that prevails on these days.

The General had a bill in to pay several thousands of dollars to the widow of one of his constituents on an old claim. He had been urging it with diligence before an uninterested House. An objection loomed which would have spelled defeat of the bill.

"Will the gentleman agree to cut his claim to $2,000?" the "objector" asked.

The General, possessed of a fiery disposition and a sharp tongue, snapped back much as if he were repudiating a buck private.

"How can you have the face to ask me to do such a thing?"

"Very well, then," was the reply, "I shall have to object."

STRATEGIC RETREAT—

The General's training as a soldier told him it was time to make a strategic retreat. The House saw it and began to chuckle.

"Give me $7,500," he said.

"No, $2,000 is all I can agree to."

"I'll take $3,500," bargained the General while the House roared.

"My price is still $2,000," was the reply.

"Make it $2,500," he shouted in desperation, but the "objector" shook his head.

"All right, $2,000 then," he said amid a chorus of "bravos" and cheers, "but it's an outrage!"

Such scenes arise all during the day the private calendar is up. The boys get an opportunity to forget for a moment such things as balancing the budget, beer and the bonus.

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON

HE PRAYED TO AL SMITH. SHE SURVIVED GALE

The little Portuguese skipper of the fishing boat was terrified by the storm that had come up, so he ran into the ship's chapel to pray to the holy images there. But someone had taken the images out to clean them the last time the ship was in port, and the poor skipper had nothing left to pray to.

In desperation, he dashed into a stateroom and knelt and prayed frantically to the first picture he saw; and it just happened that this was a big campaign photograph of Al Smith which some politically-minded seaman had tacked to a bulkhead.

Still, it worked. At any rate, the ship rode out the storm.

This is just a sample of the sort of yarn that makes "I Cover the Waterfront," by Max Miller, one of the most entertaining books of the year.

Mr. Miller is waterfront reporter for the San Diego Sun, and in this book he has written down the things he saw and thought during a tour of duty there. Since he had good eyes with which to see, and a good mind with which to think, his book is well worth reading.

He tells you, among other things, of Lindbergh before he got famous thanking reporters for getting his name in the papers; of a baby seal that came up on a moon-

Beauty Grilled in Death

Facing Scotland Yard questioners, Mrs. Elvira Dolores Barney, daughter of Sir John Ashley Mullins, told her story of the shooting of Michael Scott Stephen, son of a banker, who was found slain in her fashionable London apartment after what she termed an all-night cocktail party. Mrs. Barney said she struggled with Stephen for possession of a revolver. An accidental discharge killed him, she said. Mrs. Barney whose marriage to an American singer recently was dissolved, was released in custody of her father.

It took to sleep with him (Miller, not Lindy) one night; of the way he unwittingly helped a rum-runner escape the coast guards; of the way sea elephants are caught on a Mexican island—and of a lot of other things that space won't permit me to summarize here.

It's fine stuff, really—tolerant, witty and thoughtful. I believe and hope that we're going to hear more of this writer. He's got something.

OBITUARY

MRS. ELIZA COOPER

Eliza Cooper, widow of J. Wesley Cooper, was born at Hagerstown, Maryland, September 4th, 1845, and departed this life at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Floto, of the Kingdom Community, near Dixon, Ill., May 24th, 1932, aged 86 years 8 months and 20 days.

At the age of two years she moved from Maryland with her parents, to Ogle county, Ill., where they took up a homestead. The journey was made in a covered wagon. Many things concerning the trip and the early experience were told by the deceased, to others, to whom it came with much interest. She was married February 8th, 1866 to J. Wesley Cooper. To this union were born seven children. Five of whom and the husband have preceded her in death. Those remaining to mourn her departure are one daughter, Mrs. William Floto of Dixon, and one son, John Cooper of Hot Springs, South Dakota.

She also leaves three grand children and two great grandchildren, besides a number of other relatives and many friends.

Mrs. Cooper united with the Baptist church of Dixon, earlier in life and has always shown a great interest in the activities of the church. She was a friend to all who knew her and will be missed in the community in which a greater part of her life was spent.

TICKET NO JOKE

Houston, Tex.—A plain parking ticket issued by Patrolman Morrow turned out to be a serious offense for the driver to whom it was issued. As Morrow put the ticket on the car, the owner walked up to him, handed him fifty cents and said: "Here, forget about the ticket." But Morrow didn't forget. He took the man, money and the ticket to police station, where he filed a charge of attempted bribery against the motorist.

A Bowl to Fit in the Cake Safe

Here is a good looking bowl made to match the Cake Safe not only in design but in size so that it can be conveniently carried inside the Cake Safe. Measuring nearly four inches deep and a little less than nine inches in diameter across the top, it holds almost three quarts. It is excellent for mixing cakes but attractive enough to be used as a salad bowl for serving. The cream-colored glazed background is decorated with a band of blue and a band of gilt. Just put your salad in this bowl and carry it to the picnic in the Cake Safe.

A CAKE PLATE TO COMPLETE THE SET

And now we have a 9 1/2-inch Cake Plate to go with the bowl and the Cake Safe. It is flat enough to carry a cake and easily attractive enough to be used for a sandwich plate. It is built to fit inside the Cake Safe and made to match both the bowl and the safe. The cream-colored background and gold and blue border pattern will harmonize with most any china you have. The design is baked into the ware.

SENATORS EASY FOR BROWNS IN CURRENT FIGHT

Killefer's Moundsmen Have Edge On Big Train's Outfit

By HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

For the information of American League pitchers, the one sure way of stopping the Washington Senators is to put on a St. Louis Browns uniform.

The Senators can hold their own with the rest of the league but as soon as they see one of Bill Killefer's moundsmen take the mound they roll over and play dead. So far they've played the Browns seven times and the Browns have won six games, three of them by shut-outs.

Killefer's outfit won both games of a double-header yesterday, 6-3, and 1-0, and boosted their average above the .500 mark for the first time this season. The first game was a disconcerting affair, what with Carl Fischer, former Senator, in a Browns uniform, and Dick Coleman, former Brown, pitching for the Senators. Fischer had all the better of the argument as he held Washington, to seven hits. Coleman gave way to a pinch hitter in the fifth after allowing six hits and five runs. Walter Stewart pitched his second shutout over the Senators in the nightcap, allowing only three hits.

Yanks Increase Lead
George Herman Ruth personally conducted the New York Yankees to a 13-5 victory over Cleveland, hitting his 19th and 20th homers and a double to drive in six runs. The Detroit Tigers did some high-powered batting in the fifth and seventh frames to tumble the Philadelphia Athletics, 8-6, despite Jimmie Fox's 22nd homer. Pete Jablonowski, former Cleveland hurler, made his first start for the Boston Red Sox and was the victor in his teammates' errors, bowing 4 to 1 to the Chicago White Sox.

In the National League, the Chicago Cubs stretched their lead to a game and a half by winning a wild 13-inning battle from the Boston Braves, 5-3. The Cubs won out on doubles by Jurgens and Herman and a single by Moore. Guy Bush went the route for the leaders and allowed only ten hits. Art Shires' homer in the seventh sent the game into extra innings.

One of a large group of St. Louis Cardinals graduates, Flint Rhem, pitched the Phillies to an easy 6-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. Making his first start in Philly regalia, Rhem allowed only six hits and never was in danger after his teammates presented him with a three-run lead in the fifth.

The other two National League games were rained out.

BRUSHING UP SPORTS . . . . . By Laufer

Hooks and Slides

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER

It would be just like Mickey Walker to become the next heavyweight champion of the world.

Such an amazing career as the Mick's needs only such an amazing conclusion to perfect it.

Year after year he has gone on, suffering setback after setback, yet today he stands out as the fourth best heavyweight in the world.

Six years ago he walked into the ring with Pete Latzo, his welterweight champion at stake. Round after round, Latzo punched and rocked him. Expectantly, the crowd made up mostly of Pennsylvania miners who had seen Latzo grow up among them to a fighting stature, waited for the fierce rally toward the end of the fight, a rally that has made Walker famous among the battlers of two generations.

But it was not there. Walker went into the last round weary and worn. And when he failed to rally, it was said that the Mick as all washed up. Too long he had dissipated. He had burned the candle at both ends, and now he must pay the price. He lost the decision and the title. And faced oblivion.

THE DUNDEE BUTCHERY—
They thought he was through a little later that same year, 1926, when Joe Dundee ripped open a gash above his eye and pumped punches into it with deadly fury. With blood streaming down his face, the Mick staggered from post to post until the bout was stopped in the eighth round. When the referee ended the carnage, he was trying as he said, "to save the guy's life."

But Walker's ring life really was believed to have come to its end that night, and proper obsequies for a great little fighting machine were written by boxing scribes who had followed his career.

TIGER AND WILDCAT—
Toward the close of the same year, Kearns maneuvered his man into a bout with Tiger Flowers for the middleweight title. The gold-toothed dandy from Georgia gracefully slapped the Mick over the ring. It was easily Flowers' fight, but the decision, and the championship passed, amid jeers from the customers to Walker.

Another decision, a few years later, went amiss when Ace Hudkins beat the chunky little man into submission, only to have the judgment given to the Mick. Then came Loughran, jabbing Walker away from the light heavy weight championship, with consummate skill.

PUGS OF YESTERYEAR—
Yet all these men who beat Walker have dropped out of the picture, and the Mick goes on, still among the finest fighters in the world.

Lato, weary of the ring wars, has retired.

Dundee, beaten to a pulp, has gone back into the shadows where the old fighters go.

The Tiger from Georgia died after an operation.

Loughran keeps insisting he can come back, but the fine edge of that rapier-like left hand has dulled with the years, leaving the Philadelphia phantom wide open for the knockout thrusts of men who couldn't have swung a towel for him six years ago.

And Hudkins, the Wildcat from the West, is no longer wild.

Some of these men guided their lives with fine respect for the laws of health. Loughran and Lato, clean-living, have faded into the mists.

FRISKING AND FROLICKING—
Walker loved the lights and the music. His escapades have made good copy time and again. He has been a wild life. He has spent energy and money like a drunken sailor.

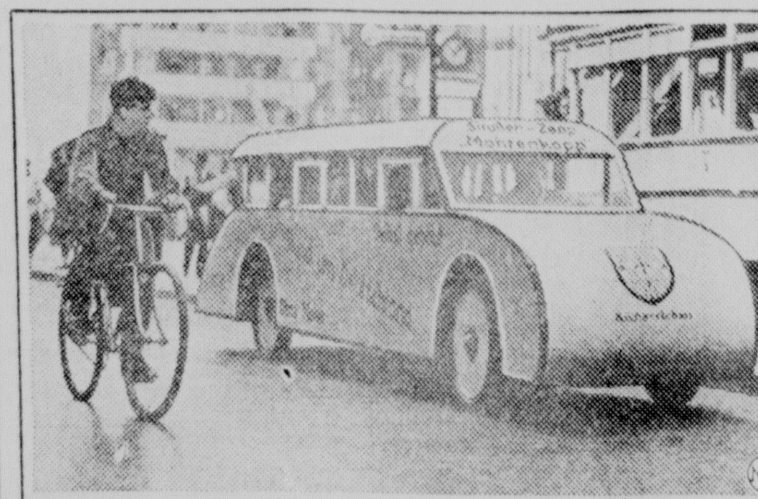

Yet he remains one of our very best fighters. He is intensely popular. He fights every minute he is in there. His legs seem to retain all the youthful spring they had 10 years ago. He still is able to save a little for the last few rounds and finish his battles in a blaze of feverish action.

It would be just like the Mick to become the next heavyweight champion of the world because it would be amazing.

EXHAUST FOR ICE

Washington—The National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics has an experimenting with hot exhaust gases to prevent ice from forming on the wings of airplanes. With a boiler arrangement which creates steam by heat from exhaust pipes, the experiments have prevented ice formation at a temperature as low as 18 degrees above zero.

Not Start In Chi.

New York, June 13—(AP)—A leg injury will keep Eurgoo King out of the American Derby at Chicago this week and possibly off the track for the rest of the year.

The Kentucky Derby and Pre-kness winner suffered a ruptured tendon in his left foreleg in training here and the injury is so serious that Traier Dick Thompson said it would be a "miracle" if the colt ran again this year.

Thompson said it had not yet been determined definitely whether Eurgoo King should also be withdrawn from the Arlington Classic at Chicago but added it was extremely unlikely the son of Bubbling Over would be seen under colors before next year.

"SMOKEY JOE" STARS: DIXON DEFEATS BELOIT

Shoemakers' Pitcher Is "Right" In Game Yesterday

"Smokey Joe" Miller swung into action on the mound for the William B. Johnson Shoe Company baseball team at Summit Field at Beloit, Wis., Sunday afternoon, opposing the Wilson Manufacturing Co. team, and went nine full innings, striking out an even dozen Wisconsin bat swingers and allowing but four scattered hits to win by a score of 10 to 2. In the sixth inning the Beloiters were retired in one, two, three order by Miller. It was the first full game he has worked in this season, and in Sunday's game he permitted but one walk.

Henley was the hitting demon for the shotmakers, belting out three hits which resulted in his crossing the plate the same number of times. Three errors were chalked up on each side, which helped the scoring for both teams.

HEAD OF CHILE'S WEEK OLD GOV'T. RESIGNED POST

His Moderate Views On Confiscation Unacceptable

Antigo, Chile, June 13—(AP)—A renewed threat of confiscation of the $75,000,000 investment in the American-controlled Cosach nitrate combine was seen today in the resignation of Carlos Davila, former Ambassador to Washington, from the Socialist junta which controls the government.

Senator Davila resigned last night from the week-old Socialist regime which ousted President Juan Esteban Montero on June 4. His resignation was believed to have been forced by the other members of the junta because his policy toward foreign interests, particularly Cosach, was considered too moderate.

He returned to the presidential palace early today, and this led to some speculation that a patching up of differences might be under discussion. Reports from the palace said, however, that the junta had decided on Davila's successor, who was to be a man of considerably more radical views.

In the meantime, Colonel Marmaduke Grove, who led the army forces that marched upon the palace a week ago Saturday and engineered the Socialist coup, was in charge.

FARES CUT HALF

Washington—Airplane passenger rates have dropped about one-half under the rates in effect two years ago, the Aeronautics Branch of the U. S. Department of Commerce reports. The average rate per mile at present is 6.2 cents. This is 7 per cent lower than the fare in effect at the beginning of the '20's.

Quite Lively for a Ghost of 1905

When they sold the old Potter Palmer mansion in Chicago two years ago, an old automobile of the vintage of 1905 was found and sold for junk. It fell into the hands of Peter Esslinger, who has just found that the old bus, like rare liquor, improves with age. He now has the car in running order, and has refused many cash offers and a new automobile for it. He uses it to drive around town. Esslinger, Beatrice Emerson and the car are shown above.

Homicidal Maniacs

The horrible story of the asylum attendant who died as the result of a struggle with a maniac, recalls another ghastly story which an alienist related some time ago. An attendant in an asylum observed a patient wandering down the ward carrying a human head under his arm. He thought that was called for, and asked the lunatic politely whose head he had got and why. As if it was the most natural thing in the world, the other gave him the information he asked for and said he decapitated his unfortunate fellow patient in his sleep because he thought it would be so amusing to see him looking for his head when he woke up.—Exchange.

Nerve-Wrecking

The understudy decided to protest against a "cut" in her wages. She burst into the theater manager's room.

"I can't stand the reduction in wages you propose to make," she commented. "In fact, I demand a raise. The work is bad for my nerves."

"Bad for your nerves!" echoed the manager. "You have merely to stand in the wings and listen to the piece."

She looked defiant.

"Yes, that is the reason," came her reply.

MARKS FELL IN CHAMPIONSHIPS AT STAGG FIELD

Only Fifteen Athletes Can Compete In Olympic Finals In July

Chicago, June 13—(AP)—Fifteen track stars who helped turn in an assortment of records in the N. C. A. A. championships, will go to the final Olympic trials at Palo Alto, Cal., July 15-16 at the expense of the American Olympic Committee.

Those who landed among the first three in each event of last Saturday's record smashing meet are eligible to compete in the final trials, but restricted finances will permit only the cream of the lot to go expenses paid.

The list has not yet been prepared by A. A. Stagg, Sr., but on the basis of performance Saturday, the lineup probably will include: Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette, who won both dashes in world record time—the century in 9 5/10 seconds, equalling the accepted world mark, and continuing through 100 meters, the Olympic distance, in 10 2/10 seconds, two-tenths of a second faster than the world record. He followed up by winning the 220 yard dash in 20 5/10, a tenth of a second better than the world record, and on the way, passed the 200 meter mark in 20 3/10, three-tenths of a second under world record figures.

Hurdles Mark Fell
Jack Keller of Ohio State, who raced the 200 yard low hurdles in 22 7/10 seconds to clip three-tenths of a second from the accepted world record.

George Saling of Iowa, whose 14 1/10 seconds for the 120 yard high hurdles was three-tenths of a second under the approved world mark.

Glen Cunningham, Kansas, who ran the fastest outdoor mile ever accomplished in America in beating Henry Grocksmith of Indiana in 4:11.1.

Charles Shugert of Miami University, who set a new N. C. A. A. record of 9:16.7 to beat Brocksmith in the two mile.

Brocksmith, who drove Cunningham and Shugert to records.

Willis Ward, Michigan Freshman, who jumped 6 feet, 7 3/4 inches, and Bert Nelson of Butler, who cleared 6 feet, 5 3/4 inches in the high jump.

Long Shot Put
Hugh Rhea, Nebraska football star, who set a new N. C. A. A. record of 52 feet, 5 3/4 inches for the 16-pound shot put, more than a foot better than the former mark made by Harlow Rothert of Stanford.

George Williams, Hampton Institute javelin thrower, who heaved the weapon 315 feet.

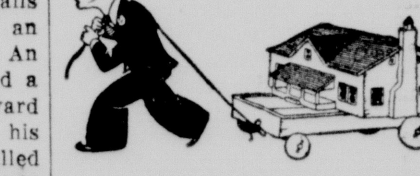

Lambert Redd of Bradley Tech, winner of the broad jump with 25 feet, 6 3/4 inches.

Eugene Beatty, Michigan Normal College Negro, who won the 400 meter hurdle trial in 52.9 seconds.

Charles Hornbostel of Indiana, winner of the 880 yard run in 1:53.5.

Bryce Beacher, Indiana; John Wonsowicz Ohio State, and Irving Seeley, Illinois freshman who cleared 13 feet, 10 inches in the pole vault.

Mercury: Helps Fly Planes And Blasts Tunnels

Washington, D. C. — Discovery of deposits of mercury in Arkansas adds another important metal to that state's list of mineral resources.

"New domestic mercury deposits are important because more mercury is used in the United States than in any other country, and more than one-third of the domestic consumption now must be imported from Europe," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Has A Thousand Uses

"Mercury has been known for at least 2,500 years, but its wide use is a development of recent centuries. Today it is employed in about a thousand ways.

"A thin stream of the silvery liquid metal sealed in a glass thermometer tube has long been man's aid in determining temperatures; in barometers, weather forecasters depend upon it to foretell changes in weather; in altimeters, it aids aviators to determine how high they are flying; and marine engineers use it in meters to estimate the flow of water.

"Mercury often does its best work where man least expects it. The life of many a sleeping voyager is guarded by huge light-house beacons that revolve on floating mercury bearings, and many toothaches have been avoided by gold or silver amalgam teeth fillings made possible by mercury. The life of dry batteries is prolonged because mercury protects their zinc plates.

Aids Beauty, Cleans Boilers

"The golfer plays on velvety greens and the farmer harvests healthy crops because a small quantity of mercury, mixed with fertilizers, kills insects that attack plant roots. The ship owner cleans the scale from the boilers of his ships with mercury and cover the hulls with paint containing mercury because it thwarts the rapid growth of barnacles. When fashion decrees that felt hats should be 'snappy' the hat manufacturer produces the desired effect with mercury.

"In many ways the metal loses its identity in various kinds of mixtures. It is in milady's rouge box and lipstick case where it is available to produce synthetic pink cheeks and red lips. The 'silvered' mirror into which she peers to apply her cosmetics is in reality, a 'mercuried' mirror.

Drugs, Chemicals, Lights

"About one-third of the world's supply of mercury is used in the drug and chemical industries. It helps to produce soda used in the manufacture of artificial silk and is an ingredient of some dyes. "It is mercury that produces the green lights and helps to produce the blue lights in colored light advertising signs. Because it is dependable in maintaining even temperatures during oil distilling operations, it is an important tool of the oil industry.

As a safe, dependable detonator

THE OLD COUNSELLOR'S COLUMN

Looking Ahead

When a man decides to make a long automobile trip, he does not, as a rule, merely step into his car and start on his way. He secures maps and determines his course. He checks road information to find out whether the going is to be easy or if he will have to figure on long detours. He makes sure his car is in order and that the tools and supplies include all those he may need in an emergency.

These preparations are made so there will be assurance that he will reach his destination in good order and in good time. Failure to plan first might mean many long delays, accidents, and perhaps even mean the destination would not be reached.

It is even more important that there be careful charting when a man starts on his investment course. Plans, some of which will not develop for years, must be taken into consideration when buying securities.

Every man has ambitions which he cherishes and which they must discharge. These have their bearings on the types of securities to be purchased.

If you are accumulating to own a business or a home, if you are planning for the education of children, or for a period of travel abroad — whatever may be your future plans or obligations — your purchase of securities should be such in security, maturity, and marketability as to make the funds definitely available when needed.

So that the importance of this may be emphasized, let us take two typical cases and show how the investor's policy today should prepare him for the eventualities of the future.

Mr. Smith wants his sons to go to college ten years from now. He wants to be sure that nothing will come up to upset the plans. He should start now to invest regularly in securities that will mature during the years the boys will be in college. He should aim to build up a fund of sufficient size so that the income, supplemented possibly by funds from his salary, will suffice to pay the expenses. That is the plan, but by having the securities mature during those years, he has assurance that more than enough to pay all expenses will be available.

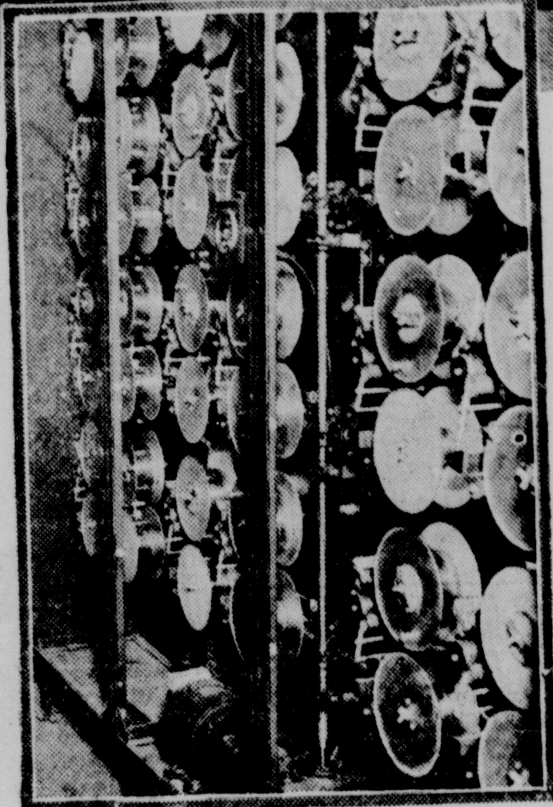

Mr. Jones will have to pay the first mortgage on his home five years from now. He will need to invest a sufficient amount in short-term, readily marketable securities, so as to be sure to have the funds available.

The investor who takes the long-range viewpoint will always have an investment account that is fully adapted to his needs.

Chicago's famous Buckingham fountain, largest of its kind in the world, which was put into operation Saturday night, May 21, for the present season, and a view of the automatically controlled movie reels which form the heart of a new lighting system installed by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. Bands of film traveling over these reels and bearing narrow, irregular strips of copper, make electrical contacts by which means a blending color flood lighting effect continuously changes for a full hour, without repetition of a single effect. Then the process automatically repeats itself. Heretofore the lighting effects have been under manual control, changed every minute.

for explosives, it was one of the so-called war minerals during the World War. In peace times its detonating uses are legion. It helps to blast tunnels through mountains and gouge cuts for railroads and highways, razes tree stumps and stones to clear land for many purposes, loosens limestone granite and marble from quarries for new buildings and dislodges minerals from mines.

Spain Chief Source

"Radio programs are amplified in American living rooms by radio tubes in the manufacture of which mercury had a part, and many electrical devices used in modern buildings were produced with the aid of mercury. One of the most outstanding recently developed uses of mercury is in power plants. The new plant uses mercury vapor instead of steam.

"Now and then mercury is found in its liquid metal state but more often it appears in a red mercury sulphur ore called cinnabar, from which the metal is extracted by a roasting process.

"Mercury is known to exist on every continent but most of the world's supply comes from Spain and Italy, with Spain leading in production. The mines at Almaden Spain, have been worked since the Romans occupied the Iberian Peninsula and some engineers aver that there remains enough of the metal to meet the world's demand for a thousand years at the present rate of consumption. The mines which give Italy second rank among mercury-producing countries are situated near Trieste and in Tuscany. The former were worked by the Austrians prior to the World War. The United States is third on the mercury production list, with California leading the 'mercury states' which include Oregon, Nevada, Washington, Texas and Arizona. The metal also is mined in Alaska, Mexico, Canada, Russia, China, Japan, Rumania, Algeria, Austria, New Zealand and Australia. Peru once was an important South American source of mercury, but production ceased several years ago."

Only the NEW NuGRAPE Has Their Delicious Flavor

You'll admit there is a goodness in the flavor of grapes—and that's why the New NuGrape is different from all artificial flavors—different as gold and brass.

In a certain valley, made rich and productive by reason of the moisture, in season, from surrounding hills—a famous brand of grapes is raised. The vineyards are renowned for the rich, wine-like flavor of the great purple clusters of fruit. And it has been our obligation to YOU, to transport that natural delicacy of flavor—to your home—to places where soft drinks are sold.

The New NuGrape — made exclusively with Welch's Grape Juice — costs no more than any artificial grape substitute. It's now on sale everywhere for 5¢.

question to the people, but recommends neither repeal, retention, nor modification.

Organized drags, in a continuous succession of rallies yesterday and today, denounced the proposal as insipid and insidious. Some spoke bitterly of betrayal at the hands of a President they trusted. Dr. F. Scott McBride declared Mr. Hoover never could hope to be re-elected on such a platform.

Wets Are Critical

The wets were quite as critical, and they gave tangible evidence of an impressive strength among the delegates. Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, whose home state of New York voted last night to throw its strength for a plank declaring for submission of a repeal amendment, denounced the W. S. H. creation as hypocritical and childish.

If the decision were to be made on a basis of the delegates, the wets probably would have it. Yesterday they produced a monster demonstration over Lake Michigan, dumping "Old Man Prohibition" into the deep from a high-flying airplane and tonight they will continue with a parade through downtown Chicago.

Few would predict how it all would come out today as the last of the delegations trekked into town for tomorrow's opening convention session in the mammoth, flag-dressed Stadium.

Expect Rousing Debate. James R. Garfield of Ohio, the Platform Committee chairman, would only say he hoped for the best. Most of his colleagues expected a decision only after a rousing debate on the convention floor. It will be Wednesday before any sort of plank comes out of the committee. Tomorrow's opening session will be short, devoted to first formalities and to the keynote to Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa.

Wednesday is platform day, and Thursday is to see the nominations completed, if all goes smoothly, and final adjournment. Most of the threat seemed today to have been taken out of the anti-Curtis movement which had mustered so strong an undercurrent forty eight hours earlier. Word went around that President Hoover so much desired Mr. Curtis' renomination that he was prepared to make an issue of it if necessary.

A boom for Secretary Ogden Mills of the Treasury was ripped when Mills himself declared for Curtis. Charles G. Dawes was virtually eliminated when his Chicago friends said he would not accept. Of course, no vice-presidential nomination ever is quite certain until it has taken place, but the guess of the best-informed today was that the old Hoover-and-Curtis posters of four years ago will still be up-to-date in 1932.

Rock-Carved Buddha

On the face of a jagged wall in a grotto in western Tibet there exists, sculptured out of the virgin rock, a mighty Buddha. The grotto was hollowed out and the image built within it probably several hundred years ago, as a modified form of Buddhism has been the chief religion of Tibet for many centuries. Buddhism, as a religion, was launched by Prince Gautama in the valley of the Ganges, in India, six hundred years before Christ. It gradually moved northward and eastward, and today there are very few Buddhists left in India proper. Most of the Buddhists of the world are found in Burma, Indo-China, Siam, Tibet, China and Japan.

KING ARTHUR

WHETHER King Arthur was a historical figure or not, and scholars are recently renewing research into this fascinating subject, there stands today in Cornwall, England, ruins of an ancient fortress, crowning the promontory Tintagel Head, which are generally known as "King Arthur's Castle." As the birthplace of the glorious King of the Round Table, this spot has recently been transferred to the possession of the English government to be used as a national park.

If King Arthur was a historical figure he was a comparatively insignificant Cornish chieftain of the fifth century just succeeding the withdrawal of the Romans. Such a chieftain is celebrated by the Sixth century historian Gildas, in connection with an account of the Battle of Mount Badon in 516, the decisive struggle which checked temporarily the advance of the Saxons against the Celts. Nonnus, writing in the Eighth century, calls him by name and attributes to him victory in twelve battles. The date of his death in the battle of Camlan in 537 is added in the Tenth century Cambrian Annals. By the Twelfth century the Monks Geoffrey of Monmouth and William of Malmesbury were able to produce accounts of his heroism already embellished with much of the legend made familiar by Malory and Tennyson.

Actually, only the foundations of the chapel of "King Arthur's Castle" date from anything like a "date" as the Sixth century. The rest of the ruins have been established as Thirteenth century Norman.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CHERRY DIXON, 19 and pretty, falls in love with DAN PHILLIPS, newspaper reporter, whom wealthy, aristocratic parents have forbidden her to see. When Cherry learns Dan's telephone messages have been kept from her she steals out of the house to meet him. Her father discovers this and threatens to send her to California. Cherry defies him and he orders her to leave.

She goes to Dan, tells him what has happened and asks him to marry her. The ceremony is performed that night by a Justice of peace.

Cherry looks for an apartment but is discouraged to find them so expensive. Dan works late one night on a tip that TOMY TONCALL, gangster chief, is coming to Wellington. Cherry unconsciously gives this news tip to a reporter on the rival newspaper. The other paper gets the story and Dan's boss threatens, "One more slip and you're fired."

DIXIE SHANNON, movie critic, helps Cherry and an inexpensive apartment. She also introduces Cherry to handsome MAX PEARSON.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVII

CHERRY'S laugh was not as convincing as it should have been. She could feel the hot color in her cheeks. She said, "How do you do, Mr. Pearson. I've heard Dan speak of you." Lowered lashes covered her confusion.

"I'm glad to know you," Pearson said. "Great boy, Dan. But of course you know that. He's to be highly congratulated."

"Isn't he?" Dixie chimed in gaily. "Too bad you missed the party, Max. We had a real celebration the night of the wedding. You should have heard Beach and Pat Warner warbling, 'Oh, Promise Me!'"

Dixie's chatter relieved the tension. When Cherry looked at Pearson again she wondered what could have made her imagine there was anything unusual about him, anything at all except the pleasant manner of an extremely good-looking young man.

Why hadn't Dan told her Pearson was so handsome? He was as tall as Dan, more solidly built though; no ounce of that weight seemed superfluous. Cherry admired the way he carried his shoulders, too. Straight as a soldier. She remembered Dan had said Pearson was an ardent pacifist and thought it amusing that she should have considered him soldierly.

She glanced at him again. It was the dark eyes with their flashing brilliance as he talked that gave so much distinction to his face. The other features were well modeled, particularly the chin which was rounded yet forceful. His hair, beneath his hat brim, looked almost black.

Pearson was saying to Dixie, "Well, I see another of your Hollywood friends has slipped off the marital shackles."

"Marital shackles? What a way to talk when Cherry here is a bride!"

"Oh, excuse me," He turned to the other girl. "But of course the Hollywood variety of marriage does seem a little different than—those that are made in heaven."

Was he laughing at her? Cherry could not tell. Dixie went on confiding gossip about the film star's divorce and the marriage to follow as soon as legal obstacles had been cleared away.

"Have you ever paid this place a visit before?" Pearson asked Cherry as they turned in before the impressive stone entrance of the News building.

"No, I haven't." Before she could say more she felt a hand on her arm and turned.

"Dan!" Cherry exclaimed. He stood before them, smiling. "Hello, folks. I see that my wife's in good company. Thought it was you ahead of me, Cherry, but I couldn't be sure. What have you been doing all day?"

PEARSON excused himself and disappeared. Dixie and Cherry together told Dan about the apartment from which they had just come, about terms and arrangements that could be made with the present tenants.

"Well, if you like it so much, honey, why didn't you take it? You're the one to be satisfied."

Cherry insisted Dan should see the place also. The discussion ended with another telephone call to Mrs. Clark. That evening Cherry and Dan climbed the long flight of stairs together and knocked at the Clarks' door. When they departed half an hour later a deposit on the first $50 rent had been paid and it was agreed the new tenants should move in Monday morning.

For the next three days Cherry was unusually busy. She set forth on her career as a housewife by investing in two huge and impressive cook books, a smaller volume which she found on the same counter in the book store entitled, "The Budget Book or How to Operate a Home Economically," and a becoming pink and white apron.

There was packing to do and though it was only her own clothing and Dan's it seemed an enormous task. It was not finished until Sunday when Dan came to her rescue and by the simple process of tossing everything in sight into two large suitcases, sitting on them and thus forcing the edges together so the buckles could be snapped, the packing was completed.

They stood together on the threshold of the room they were about to desert. It was littered with papers, discarded odds and ends, and looked dingier and uglier than ever.

"Somehow I hate to go," Cherry said regretfully. "We've been so happy here."

"If you think I'd unpack all that junk!"

"Oh, excuse me," He turned to don't mean it. Not really. The new place is going to be ever so much nicer. Only I'll always remember this room, Dan."

He drew his arm close about her, kissed her. "The cab will be waiting," he said. "We'd better go down."

Cherry's trunk had been sent ahead to the new address. The rest of the baggage was stowed into the taxicab beside Cherry and Dan. It took a short ride to their new dwelling.

The janitor answered Dan's ring and helped carry the bulky suitcases up the stairs. Then, as soon as the new tenants had received their keys he departed.

Dan said, "Sorry I can't wait to help unpack, dear. See you tonight."

"At 5:30?"

"As nearly as I can make it. Bye."

THE door closed after him. Cherry stood in the middle of the floor and surveyed her new home. Oh, it was going to be lovely here! It was so much nicer than she had remembered. The worn furniture, the cheap, makeshift decorations took on new attractiveness because she thought of them as her own.

The day dreamed ended abruptly as Cherry remembered that there was much to be done. She took off her hat and coat, inspected the single clothes closet and hung them away. The closet seemed rather small and there was a great deal to go into it. Well, if the Clarks had managed she could.

There was a knock at the door and she opened it. The janitor was there to tell her the men were bringing up her trunk. When it arrived Cherry persuaded the janitor to unlock and help her get the bulky suitcases open. He was amiable and asked if there was anything else with which she needed help.

Cherry said no and the man left. Somehow the baggage seemed to fill the entire room. It wasn't as large a room as she had thought. Where and how to begin?

There didn't seem to be much choice. Cherry remembered the pink apron, got it out and tied it around her waist. Then she pushed up her sleeves and set to work.

She forgot time in her eagerness to put the new home to rights. At last she straightened from the suitcase every choice she had been bending. Her back ached and she rubbed it. Cherry looked at the watch on her wrist.

Almost two o'clock! Good gracious, was it so late as that? She realized she was tired and sank into a chair with a sigh. She had been working steadily since early morning. Dan's things had all been unpacked and put away. Most of her own hung in the closet.

"I'm hungry," Cherry thought. "And there's nothing to eat—"

The kitchen. Fraida! There on the pile of plates was a small tin box of tea and on the lower shelf was a box of wafers about half filled.

Cherry lighted a blaze under one of the stove burners, burning her fingers with the match. She put on water to heat and waited until the kettle began to hum. Then she made tea and poured a cupful. The tea and the box of wafers made her lunch.

HER arms and shoulders ached from the morning's exertion. Cherry decided to leave the room as it was. The really important event of the day was to be the evening meal. It would be the first she had ever cooked for Dan, the first in their own home. She thrilled at the thought!

Marketing would be the first step. Cherry washed her face and hands, dabbed on powder and then got into her coat and hat. Just in time she remembered she must have her key and went back for it.

The grocery store was a block away. Mentally Cherry checked over the list of things she must buy. It would have to be a large order. She wanted beefsteak for dinner, mushrooms to go with it, and potatoes of course. Then there would be a salad. Stuffed celery would be nice and there was a recipe in the cookbook. For dessert strawberries and cream. So that the meal would be especially nice she wanted salted nuts and olives.

In the store she remembered she would need ever so many more things—rolls and butter and coffee. The young man who took the order was helpful. He reminded her to buy eggs, a bottle of milk and fruit for breakfast.

The purchases, set out on the counter, astounded Cherry. There were so many packages and they were so big.

"I'll carry them out to your car," the clerk offered.

"I'm sorry but I—I haven't a car."

"We can send them but we charge 10 cents for delivery service."

Cherry nodded. She was counting out money to pay the bill. Three dollars and 65 cents. She dug out the last coin from the bottom of her purse and discovered there were only six pennies left.

"I guess I'd better take the things with me," she said hesitantly.

The obliging clerk crowded the groceries into three big sacks. Balancing the heavy load perilously Cherry set off down the street.

She had not gone a dozen yards when the sound of an automobile horn attracted her attention. Cherry turned to face Max Pearson at the wheel of a black roadster. He had pulled the car to the curb.

"Going to let me give you a lift, aren't you?" Pearson called as he stopped to the pavement. He was smiling.

"Peachy" Pajamas for the Honeymoon Breakfast

Peach Tones Distinguish Summery Costume

Smart pajamas for that first honeymoon breakfast will strengthen your new husband's conviction that you are a "peachy."

For the charming costume illustrated here is distinguished by its large, peach-colored roses and its lining of peach crepe. Soft green leaves, too, add to its summery effect. The pajamas fit snugly about the hips, trousers are full and the neckline is soft and flattering. Carrying out the "peachy" effect, the maid's outfit is of peach-colored washable crepe and the china, too, is of a peach tone.

ROBINSON CRUSOE

IT IS because Daniel Defoe was a good newspaper man, able to see the "story" in a current news yarn concerning the rescue of a marooned sailor from a desert island that we have today that universal favorite "Robinson Crusoe."

The yarn upon which he based his book was about one Alexander Selkirk, English mariner born at Largo, Fifehire, who early went out to privateering in the South seas and by 1704 had earned promotion to command of the good ship Cinque Ports. As the result of a quarrel with his captain, he was at his own request set ashore at Juan Fernandez, a tiny island some 350 miles west of the coast of Chile, where he lived for four years and four months, much, perhaps as did the character he inspired. He was finally rescued by Capt. Woodes Rogers and returned to civilization. At the time of his death Selkirk had attained rank of lieutenant.

Not only was it his story upon which Defoe built "Robinson Crusoe," but Juan Fernandez is today frequently known as Crusoe's Island, and boasts not only many of the very umbrella trees that figure in the story, but a Crusoe's cave, and, near the summit of its highest mountain, Selkirk's Lookout, a tablet, placed there in 1868 in honor of the original Robinson Crusoe! Tea Time for Accused Rector

It was "tea for two," in a London West End restaurant as the Rev. Harold F. Davidson, rector of Stiffkey (right) was snapped with one of the girls who have come to his defense in his trial on immorality charges. In ecclesiastical court at Church House Westminster, the rector has denied his welfare work among working girls involved any breach of morality. His kisses were only paternal, he insists. His accusers charged many tete-a-tetes in tearooms.

Deny S O S Came From This Plane

Striking the source of mysterious S O S calls picked up by radio stations along the North Atlantic coast, federal officials at first believed the messages to have been sent from the ship-to-shore mail plane of the German liner Europa. But flyers of the plane, strikingly shown above as it took off from the deck of the Europa several hundred miles at sea, have denied sending calls for assistance.

ILLINOIS' REP. DELEGATION TO CAUCUS TONIGHT

Emmerson And Frank L. Smith In Fight For Committeeman

Chicago, June 12—(AP)—After twelve years, an Illinois G. O. P. delegation came back to Lake Shore Michigan Boulevard today for a national convention, talking of prohibition repeal, the vice presidency, and, particularly, the national communitism.

Concerning tonight's caucus at the headquarters in the Stevens Hotel, two questions were uppermost:

Can Frank L. Smith, the Dwight banker, win his way again to a place of prime power in Illinois Republicanism?—and will Charles G. Dawes maintain his insistence against a move to draft him for the vice presidential nomination.

Opposing Smith for the committee-man's place are Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, Roy O. West, the incumbent, and George F. Harding, Cook county leader.

Smith campaign manager for Len Small's seeking of a third term as Governor, and Emmerson close to President Hoover personally, were seen as the chief contenders for the National Committee post.

Boom For Dawes

Despite the insistence of his close associates that General Dawes retired from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to tend strictly to his business, the Illinois delegation was ready to launch a vice presidential movement for the former British Ambassador.

Dawes, Vice President in the Coolidge administration, has steadfastly refused to discuss politics, either in Washington or Chicago.

One man was missing from the councils of the prominent: the "champion of agriculture," Frank O. Lowden.

The "Master of Mississippi Farm" was even a member of the delegation-at-large.

Mrs. Bertha Baur is again a candidate for National Committee-woman. The Gold Coast society matron has no announced opposition.

State For Repeal

As far as the Illinois delegation is concerned, prohibition has been relegated to secondary importance. The recent Springfield convention adopted a plank calling for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and instructed to the state delegation to pursue this desire.

None of the Illinois leaders have directly connected the delegation with the general trend of the with a "draft Dawes" movement, opening day, tomorrow of the convention.

Three weeks ago, there was some opposition to Hoover's renomination but this has melted away. Whether or not the half a dozen delegates opposed was wholly a matter of conjecture.

Twenty-two delegates-at-large, with half a vote each, were named at the state convention.

State's Delegation

In addition to Denen, Small, Gov. Emmerson and Smith, they include: former Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago; Senator Otis F. Glenn, General Dawes, Attorney-General Oscar Carlstrom, Judge Edward Shurtleff of Marengo, Congressman Oscar DePriest of Chicago and William E. Hull of Peoria, Mrs. Baur, Werner Schroeder and Omer N. Custer, candidate in April for the Republican governorship nomination.

There are two delegates from each of the twenty-five congressional districts. The members of the delegation are: from Chicago, the first ten districts: Roscoe Simmons, John Lord, George F. Harding, Daniel P. Trude, James B. Ellis, Rudolph Schoeppe, Alexis L. Gallezewski, Thomas J. Ryan, George F. Barrett, Samuel R. Ballis, W. R. James, William M. Garrison, William Busse, James C. Moreland, William V. Pacelli, James Vignola, Carter Blatchford, Richard Prendergast, Charles M. Moderwell, Evanston, and Abel Davis, Glenview.

Downstate members:

Hardin, Monmouth; Harry Cleveland, Rock Island; Frank M. Lay, Kewanee; John F. Garner, Quincy; George Mitchell, Peoria; Henry Herget, Pekin; Chester R. Denison, Moline; John G. Today is the World War Anniversary

FRENCH FORCED BACK

On June 13, 1918, German shock divisions operating near Noyon in the Marne salient resumed their hammering at French lines and forced a withdrawal south of that city.

German official bulletins again claimed that the French troops had been "crushed" and claimed more than 30,000 prisoners in the previous week's fighting.

French counter-attacks gained ground in some sections, but the day's fighting on the whole was unfavorable for them.

American marines repulsed a desperate attack on Bouresches by the crack German Fifth Guard division, inflicting heavy losses. It was the third such attack which had been repulsed in less than a week.

They will live in Asheville permanently and she has quit the movies for good.

Queen of Texas Bonus Army

"Queen of Texas' bonus army," was the title bestowed on Mary Arnold 23 pretty brown-eyed wife of C. S. Arnold, Atlanta, Ga. World War veteran, when she enlisted with her husband for the march to Washington. She is the only woman known to be with the "army." Here you see her, attired in overalls, smiling a farewell to Dallas, Tex., when the long trek started by box car. At her right is her husband, a war-time dispatch rider of the 116th field artillery. They abandoned a placer mine in Arizona to join the "march," making their first hitch by refrigerator car.

Italian Crime Exhibit

The famous "black museum" of Scotland Yard, that grim repository of lethal weapons and devices and of other relics of crime, has a rival, a similar chamber of police interest has been opened in the new prison in Rome, the exhibits gathered together ranging from modern counterfeiters of old Roman coins—to be palmed off on tourists as antiquities—back through medieval instruments of torture.

Among the exhibits in the Italian criminal museum are a safe opened by burglars, displaying their method of work and the tools used, and an iron framework "cage" of medieval origin. This old cage is a device used for suspending from castle walls victims who were slowly starving to death.

Octopus Slippery Fox

Although the octopus is a terror of the deep, its body is relished by its large enemies, but if attacked by a great fish it will often come out best in the fight, for it ejects a quantity of sepia which darkens the water. It will also use this as a smoke-screen when attacking, for its powerful eyes are able to penetrate the darkened water, while the object of its search is probably lost in the cloud. The sepia in its body makes it a valuable object to capture; in the seas where it is found this is not difficult, for the octopus is a denizen of shallow and usually clear water. But it can escape through exceedingly small crevices, as those who have tried to keep one in an aquarium have found to their cost.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"God the Preserver of Man" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, June 12.

The Golden Text was, "Thy righteousness is like the great mountains; thy judgments are a great deep; O Lord, thou preservest man and beast" (Psalms 36:6).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty. He shall cover thee with his feathers, and under his wings shalt thou trust; his truth shall be thy shield and buckler" (Psalms 91:1, 4).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The history of Christianity furnishes sublime proofs of the supporting influence and protecting power bestowed on man by his heavenly Father, omnipotent Mind, who gives man faith and understanding whereby to defend himself, not only from temptation, but from bodily suffering" (p. 387).

According to Dr. W. J. Humphreys, of the U. S. Weather Bureau, there are about 4,000,000 cubic miles of ice on Greenland, the Antarctic continent, and Iceland.

Pretty Typist-Sleuth Traps Two

Joining the Kansas City, Mo. police force, Miss Vera Brown, (above) 29, pretty stenographer-detective was called from her typewriter the day after her appointment to deliver the decoy pay-off package that trapped Walter Ogborn (lower right), who has confessed police claim, to threatening to kidnap the 3-year-old son of a wealthy Kansas City rug merchant unless $6000 was paid. "Buy First, Then Read"

Shakespeare's first editors, John Hemminge and Henrie Condell, may worthily compare to the best advertising brains of today, for they began their preface with:

"The fate of all books depends upon your capacities, and not of your heads alone, but of your purses. Well, it is now published and you will stand for your privilege, we know; to read and ensure. Do so, but buy it first."

Wing Speeds

Wild birds do not fly as fast as hunters suppose, according to representatives of the United States Department of Agriculture. They have accurately timed certain game birds, with the following results: pintail ducks fly from 55 to 65 miles an hour; teal, 50 to 55; mallard, 50 to 55; sand grouse, 43 to 47; brant, 45; Canada goose, 44; albatross, 60. The fastest spurt was made by a duck hawk—180 miles per hour.
